Dear Parents,

This fall we opened our new school wing. Our new library, makerspace, classrooms, teaching kitchen, learning resource rooms and amphitheater have been transformational!

We also added chickens and a new large garden that will be planted in the spring. Every day, our students are using all our new spaces. From cooking projects to woodworking, reading in the library or yoga in the amphitheater, our students have benefited from all our efforts to create this new part of our campus.

This endeavor could not have taken place without the hard work of our board, parents, and staff. We raised over $1.1 million towards this project and are finishing our campaign this year with engraved bricks on our amphitheater patio. We appreciate all that our community contributes, and I am so pleased by the outpouring of support for our school.

Our building, completed in 2002, and the subsequent additions came about as part of strategic planning. Through a comprehensive process, we determine what our students and community need to be successful. We are in the middle of new planning process and look forward to what this new strategic plan will bring.

We would not be the outstanding school we are without the talented and dedicated faculty, our skilled administrative team, our caring parents, and eager students! I am grateful to have such a great place to not only be every day, but also to be able to provide this wonderful learning environment to our students.

Sincerely,

Susan Kambrich, Ed.D.
Head of School

Dear Woodland Hill Families,

Welcome to the Annual Meeting! I look forward to reporting on this last year. Each passing year brings us new challenges and accomplishments strengthening Woodland Hill Montessori School. Our school continues to stand out from the rest exceling at educating children with the proven Montessori philosophy. Our children as the center are the common thread holding us all together.

Susan and the administration closely attend to all of our children. They are vested in their success holistically looking at each child with uniqueness. Day by day, they coordinate and problem solve ensuring safety, structure and consistency.

The Board is honed in on the success of Woodland Hill. We work side by side with Susan supporting her and providing our expertise. This past year we completed our new building and capital campaign. It was no small feat! We increased our meetings, added ad hoc committees and kept business as usual. Deliberations and big decisions being made all the while aligning with our mission, remembering that it’s your children at the center of it all.

Thank you for your commitment to Woodland Hill. We all have an integral role in this success and should be proud of our triumphant feat this past year!

Sincerely,

Katie Singh
President of the Board of Trustees

He has performed in 12 countries, 24 states, at Carnegie Hall, Lincoln Center, Town Hall, Symphony Space, and on PBS.
Campus Enhancements

After a year of construction, our new addition was completed in early September. The addition includes three new classrooms, science lab, teaching kitchen, library, and a Maker’s Workshop. A ribbon cutting was held on Friday, September 20, 2019. WHMS students and nearly 500 guests gathered at the new amphitheater to ceremoniously cut the ribbon. In addition to the students, parents, grandparents, and community members, the ribbon cutting was attended by local leaders and politicians. The celebration included performances by the Glee Club, Upper El, and seven of the WHMS violin students.

An electric car charging station was installed in April, and the Green Team hosted a ribbon cutting event. WHMS families and community members brought their electric cars for display and test-drives.

WHMS is now home to six chickens and a coop. The chickens roam during the day and they have been exploring their new surroundings, before returning to their coop each night. Children in aftercare can choose to learn about and care for the chickens.

Professional Development

Thirty-five Woodland Hill faculty and staff members traveled together to Washington D.C. in March to attend The Montessori Event 2019, the annual American Montessori Society conference. The staff attended a variety of workshops covering a wide range of topics. They listened to inspirational keynote speakers, and took home new Montessori materials to try in their classrooms. The conference is always inspiring, and the teachers appreciated the access to thoughtful presentations and connections with other Montessorians, along with the opportunity to connect with their colleagues.

WHMS faculty attended a music and movement workshop before school started this year presented by Montessori Music Educator Matilda Giampietro, Ph.D.

New Programs

WHMS took part in the Hour of Code as part of Computer Science Education Week. Parent volunteers provided an hour of coding in Lower El and Upper El classrooms. The Coding committee also worked with Middle School students to take apart and rebuild computers.

In April, WHMS hosted a Repair Cafe that was open to the surrounding community. Attendees brought items for repair, including bikes, old appliances, and clothes that needed mending.

A Toddler Book Club has been meeting this fall and will continue through the spring. The group has been discussing The Montessori Toddler: A Parent’s Guide to Raising a Curious and Responsible Human Being.

Students from kindergarten through Upper El, and Middle School students in the art elective worked on an Ocean Art project designed to bring attention to ocean pollution. Their work was displayed at the Children’s Museum of Science and Technology in March.

Upper El students learned pickle ball this fall, and the unit culminated in an Upper Elementary Pickle Ball Tournament. The students loved it!

This fall, Middle School students worked over on a STEAM building project as part of Kids CAN Build. The students chose a theme, collected cans to build their creation, and competed against local middle schools. All the cans collected were donated to Shalom Food Pantry, the organization that created the challenge.

A sampling of campus events

In December, the Bio Bus 2, a converted Airstream travel trailer, visited WHMS. Students in Lower El, Upper El, and Middle School climbed aboard the bus and learned about Daphnia, a shrimp-like animal found in ponds and puddles. Using the state-of-the-art microscopes on board the Bio Bus, students had the unique opportunity to observe the inner workings of Daphnia, including a beating heart, twitching muscles, and digestive system.

On November 27, WHMS held an Entrepreneurs’ Forum. The forum featured seven WHMS community members: Tamara Gatchell, Tobi Saulnier, Tamara Gatchell, Doug Grout, Karthik and Guha Bala, Susan Kambrich, Gunther Fishgold, and Nihar Jaleel. After each panelist spoke, the 6th - 8th grade students in the audience asked questions. It was the third such forum held by WHMS and was enjoyed by both the students and the panelists.

Achievements

Enrollment at WHMS remains strong. There are 306 students this year: 20 Toddlers, 105 Primary students, 84 Lower El students, 70 Upper El students, and 27 Middle School students.

Shreya Pullela won the WHMS Spelling Bee in December 2019 and represented Woodland Hill at the Capital Region Spelling Bee in February.

Romeo Vashishth won Woodland Hill’s National Geographic GeoBee in January. This was his second consecutive year winning the GeoBee, a competition designed to inspire and reward students’ curiosity about the world.

The entire school, along with community members, gathered on February 28 to honor Dr. Susan Kambrich for earning her doctorate in education leadership. Her accomplishment demonstrates her dedication to lifelong learning. Each level presented Susan with a gift, and the students sang songs in celebration.

The Upper Elementary students hosted an OXFAM Banquet, an event designed to bring hunger and poverty issues to light. The Upper Elementary students presented to the attendees, discussing facts and examples of real-life inequalities and raised $1,550 to benefit OXFAM America.
The WHMS Theatre Club presented Willy Wonka Kids in December and Alice in Wonderland Jr. in April.

WHMS violin students, under the direction of Andrew Snow, performed at the Troy Victorian Stroll in December 2018.

On the day before the winter holiday break, Upper Elementary and Middle School students came together to share their original works of poetry. This event has fast become a beloved tradition by the students.

The Upper Elementary and Middle School students enjoyed a visit from local news anchor, columnist, and author John Gray. He spoke about his children’s books and his writing process. His books deal with animals, animal rescue, and the importance of being inclusive.

The Primary Pinning Ceremony, a beloved WHMS tradition designed to showcase the leadership skills of those students in their third year of Primary, featured 44 students standing up, telling the audience of family members and friends their favorite work, and singing songs, before receiving a special pin from Susan and her teacher.

Middle School students were visited by Sandra Stevenson, an assistant editor at The New York Times. Sandra talked to students about media bias, how print media has evolved, and encouraged them to get their news from a variety of outlets to get different perspectives.

Albany Art Room owner Karen Schupack served as our artist-in-residence in the spring. She created a series of multimedia paintings and worked with Upper El students on blind contour drawings, an exercise where an artist draws the contour of a subject without looking at the paper.

As part of African American History Month, WHMS hosted a school-wide assembly with storyteller Reggie Harris. The Upper Elementary students also participated in workshops with him.

Students in Lower Elementary through Middle School presented projects at the Americas Fair, which took place in March.

Students enjoyed an assembly with percussionist John Arrucci called “Percussion Around the World” in March, which celebrated a rich diversity of percussion traditions from around the world with demonstrations and discussions of instruments from Brazil, Cuba, Nigeria, Zimbabwe and Trinidad.

Upper Elementary students participated in a challenge on March 13 during WHMS parent Sarah Ward’s presentation about life for children in refugee camps. The children carried buckets of water so they could experience what it is like for children who must carry water to their families over even further distances.

The Middle School’s annual class trip took them on a Civil Rights Journey. This learning journey is an integral part of the Middle School curriculum. Students plan and research each stop of their journey. They visited the Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Historic Center and Stone Mountain in Georgia, the Southern Poverty Law Center and Selma March Route in Montgomery, Alabama, and the Martin Luther King, Jr. Reflection Site in Memphis, Tennessee.

The Upper Elementary students traveled to the Ashokan Center where they participated in archery, learned about blacksmithing, challenged themselves on a high ropes course, and participated in team building.

Seven students represented Woodland Hill at the 37th Annual Olympics of the Visual Arts (OVA) hosted by the New York State Art Teachers Association in Saratoga Springs. Nora Bennett, Isa and Maya Lopez-Camacho, Alex Puchner, Maia Roberts, Violet Stasi and Eleanor Toomey all participated.

Students enjoyed a performance by Lorena Garay, an award-winning guitarist from Puerto Rico. Lorena played for them and had the students use instruments from around the world.

Opera Saratoga came to WHMS, as they have for many years. This year’s show was Pinocchio.

Perry Ground from the Onondaga nation visited with WHMS students in April. They enjoyed his storytelling and participated in workshops to learn about wampum, corn husk dolls and Iroquois games.

More than 60 members of the WHMS community participated in the Capital Pride Parade on June 11. This was Woodland Hill’s fifth year participating.

500 members of the WHMS community enjoyed the beautiful weather and fun activities at this year’s Fall Family Fun Day on Saturday, September 21. Festivities included face painting, tie-dying, henna tattoos, two bands, Himmeli and Ojo de Dios crafts, personalized laser cuttings, a magic show, balloons, and games.

The WHMS 8th grade students attended the annual Global Citizen Action Project (GCAP) in New York City along with other Middle School Montessori students from around the country. The students participated in discussions on the work of the United Nations and learned what they can do to become better informed and more productive global citizens.

Upper El students volunteered at Patroon Land Farm on October 10. Students planted garlic, spread hay, and put the garden beds to rest for the winter. They followed their service trip with a picnic lunch and hike on the Indian Ladder Trail at Thacher Park.

Woodland Hill Montessori School students learned how to write, perform, and record an anti-bullying song during an Artist-in-Residency program. From November 4 to November 7, WHMS welcomed Brian Chevalier and his program, Dignity for All Students. Brian worked with the Lower El, Upper El, and Middle School to conduct songwriting workshops that touch on messages of civility, tolerance, and diversity. He also performed for the Primary students. The event was capped off at the Lantern Walk, where Brian and the students performed the songs.

Steve O’Malley, a Woodland Hill Montessori School parent and Head of the United Nation’s South Sudan office, spoke to the Lower El students on November 4. O’Malley has worked for the UN for almost 20 years and has been the Head of Office in South Sudan for more than a year. He talked to the students about the conditions of the South Sudan and presented a slide show.

Parent Education

Jim Dillon, former Guilderland principal and veteran educator visited Woodland Hill in January for a parent education event. She spoke about creating reasonable boundaries around screen time for all family members based on her book, 7 Step Cleanse for Families: From a Teenager’s Perspective.

We welcomed attorney Susan Carroll Picotte on March 5 for an Estate Planning workshop.

Lower El head teacher Melinda Putney spoke to parents about the importance of literacy at school and at home at our annual Parent Education Event in October. Melinda, a published author and passionate writer, explained several of Montessori’s literacy materials and shared advice for encouraging some of these methods at home.

On November 20, the Diversity Committee hosted a dinner and discussion with Dr. Kristie Ford, a professor of sociology at Skidmore College, on how to talk with children about race. The talk was well attended, and participants engaged in discussions regarding how to address the questions their children ask as well as how to discuss race with sensitivity without avoiding the subject.
